DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of group I, claims 1-12, 15-18, and 20-21 in Paper No. 7, is acknowledged. Claims 13-14, and 19 are withdrawn from consideration.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
3. Claims 2 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

With respect to claim 2, it is not clear what "PVDF" applicants refer to. It is suggested that applicants specify PVDF for clarity.

With respect to claim 18, "a monoclonal antibody that binds squalene and squalane," is vague and confusing. The preamble of the base claim 1 purported to a specific goal to detect the presence of squalene antibodies in a test sample, whereas the instant claim recites a monoclonal antibody recognizing both squalene and squalane. It is unclear what applicants intend to detect, either squalene or squalane, or both.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in-

(1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b)

Art Unit: 1641

only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or

(2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

5. Claims 1-4, 8, 10-12, 15, 17, 18 and 20-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (e) as anticipated by Asa et al.. (USP 6214566)

Asa teach measuring anti-squalene antibody by immobilizing squalene on the solid support, i.e. polystyrene (claim 1, 6), washing with blocking buffer (i.e. phosphate buffer saline, goat serum, See Example 3), contacting the immobilized squalene with test sample containing anti-squalene antibody to form an antibody complex (claim 1), and contacting the complex with a IgG having specificity to the antibody complex (See Example 3) and use immunoenzymatic detection, i.e. hydrogen peroxidase, to determine the presence of the squalene antibody. (See Example 6)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.

Art Unit: 1641

4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.
7. Claims 5-7 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Asa et al. in view of Rodkey et al. (USP 6191108) and Lombardo et al. (USP 6166050)

Asa et al. reference has been discussed but fails specifically teaching using bovine serum albumins, human serum or mouse serum as blocking agents. Rodkey et al. teach using bovine serum and human serum as blocking agents for reducing non-specific binding of antibody-antigen. (Col. 11, line 35-37; Col. 40, line 52-55) Lombardo et al. teach using mouse serum as blocking agents. (Col. 35, line 10-12) Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided Asa et al. with different alternative blocking agents as taught by Rodkey et al. and Lombardo et al. because it is a routine practice in the art in reducing non-specific bindings in the immunoassay.

As to the range of bovine serum albumin claimed in claim 5 and 6, the Office takes the position that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges of the agents involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

8. Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Asa et al. in view of Barchfeld et al.. (USP 5709879)

Asa reference has been discussed but fails to specifically teach using liposomes containing squalene. Barchfeld et al. teach using emulsion-liposome containing squalene in yielding a higher antibody response. (Col. 22, line 36-47) Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have provided Asa et al. with the liposome containing squalene as taught by Barchfeld et al, in order to result in a better immunoresponse.
